"King Mabel" crowned at worst KOTR in recent memory

Savio Vega has good showing; Roadie, Holly pull best match of the night

HEADLINE NEWS STORY

By Bryan Alvarez, Editor

It was rumored for quite some time that a big name would not win the WWF's King of the Ring pay-per-view tournament. However, the editors of this newsletter still picked Shawn Michaels to win it all. We were very wrong; Michaels didn't even get through the first round. All of this led up to a tournament final which must be considered one of the worst main event match-ups of all time - Savio Vega vs. Mabel from Men on a Mission.

The surprises began during the King of the Ring Countdown Show. Philadelphia, the host city for KOTR, is often called the "City of Brotherly Love"... and what better way to market this then by having Bruce Pritchard, formerly known in the WWF as Brother Love, appear on camera trying to market KOTR T-shirts. Pritchard appeared throughout the night, trying to sell shirts which included, absolutely FREE, a Bob Backlund For President button. Following this plug, we were presented with IRS vs. Savio Vega in a King of the Ring Qualifying match. The winner would take over Razor Ramon's spot, Ramon being bumped due to a rib injury. Vega won this match in a couple of minutes with a well executed flying savate kick.

For some reason, the actual KOTR tournament began with the Yokozuna vs. Vega match, which was the last slated on the bracket. You'd think they'd give Vega more of a rest after his grueling five minute match with IRS, but they thought otherwise. Yokozuna looked like he was going to have a heart attack after about three minutes of action. Billed as 641 pounds, commentator Doc Hendrix pointed out, "He outweighs even the late, great Haystacks Calhoun!" Hmmm... possible Hall of Famer next year? Lot's of long rest holds in this match made it barely watchable. Eventually Owen Hart came to ringside to distract Razor, but this only helped to distract the referee away from Vega, who rammed Yoko's face into the ringpost. Vega returned to the ring, got the countout victory.

Roadie vs. Bob Holly was up next. This was undoubtedly the best match on the card. Both men exploded into action from the very start and had few rest holds. Several near falls graced the beginning, but Roadie took the victory by an unusual pinfall. Holly was being covered, the ref made the count, and Holly appeared to kick out after two and a half. The referee slapped the mat a third time, both men looked at him, he looked confused for a moment, then signalled for the bell. Weird.

Shawn Michaels vs. Kama was set up with Michaels heading from the dressing room up to Pritchard, who was hawking T-shirts by the KOTR throne. Shawn talks for a while, reaches over, picks up the crown and tries it on. It doesn't fit. He quickly replaces it and heads down to a HORRIBLE match. Kama can barely work, and Shawn, for reasons incomprehensible, sells everything. The match is filled with rest holds and ends up going the entire fifteen minutes. The referee announces a "double draw", whatever the hell that means, and both men are out.

Next we get a shot of the Stri-Dex indoor blimp.

Mabel vs Undertaker comes next, and is a sleeper in the sense that the fans appeared to be asleep. This HORRIBLE match culminates in shocking fashion: the referee gets knocked out and Kama rushes in to attack Undertaker. A single move knocks 'Taker down. If that's not

WRESTLER OF THE WEEK

Prior to becoming UIWA Washington State Champion, Big Red Wrecking Crew had been offering $1000 to anyone, wrestler or fan, that could put his shoulders to the mat for the three count. On a recent card, Headshrinker Sumito made his debut and not only won an arm wrestling match for their tourney, but managed to pin the 325 pound Wrecking Crew in his second match of the evening!

Wrecking Crew had been dominating most of the match until he turned to the fans and broke into a double biceps pose. Sumito came from behind and turned the pose into a backslide for the victory. $1000 bucks isn't bad for a debut night!

MATCH OF THE WEEK

Although King of the Ring was universally agreed upon as possibly the worst pay-per-view in history, one of the nine matches actually had the fans cheering... but it was the sole highlight of the night.

Still, Roadie and Bob Holly gave it their best for their KOTR first round match. Both men had some fantastic bumps, and there were surprisingly few rest holds. Although Holly has had little success in the WWF aside from a one-day tag title reign, this match impressed the editors of this newsletter to the point of giving Holly a little more credibility. He may not be the most interesting the WWF has to offer, but his workrate is up there among the top ten.

As for Roadie, his previous experience as Brian Armstrong shone through nicely in this match as well.

World Wrestling Federation News

Despite low talent KOTR, WWF looks to add new excitement soon

Although the WWF has been berated recently for it's poor handling of talent in the King of the Ring tournament, back office personnel, headed by Jim Ross, are looking to bring in some exciting new talent soon. A short list follows:

Dustin Rhodes -Rhodes has signed and looks to be coming in on the current set of T.V. tapings. Apparently, he has chosen to keep the name "Dustin Rhodes", but will drop "the Natural" moniker, turn heel, and dye his hair black.

Shane Douglas - Apparently Douglas has also signed with WWF and will most likely be appearing soon, as a heel, with his own interview segment comparable to Shawn's old Heartbreak Hotel, and Lawler's recent King's Court. There have been rumors to the effect that Shane will be the individual Lawler was talking about on Monday Night Raw, known as Isaac Yankem, a dentist character. Others negotiating with WWF that could possibly fill that mold - Dean Malenko, Rhodes, 2 Cold Scorpio or perhaps most fitting, Dr. Death Steve Williams.

Brian Christopher, real life son of Jerry Lawler, was originally scheduled to be Lawler's mom in his match against Bret Hart at the first In Your House PPV, but the idea was scrapped at the last minute. Now Christopher, who was originally going to be billed as "The Prince" will be debuting in WWF on or around October 3rd.

The Million Dollar Corporation, headed by Ted DiBiase, has slowly been letting members go. Although the Corporation has received no credibility or major wins since the formation, it is possible that Unibom, Williams, Waylan Mercy and Spellbinder could soon be added to the roster.

Concerning the new WCW Monday night show, McMahon recently gave these comments to the press: "WCW bringing on a Monday night show will only hurt them more because the ratings in WWF are so high from Monday Night Raw that it won't get the same respect." After KOTR, we'll have to see if the RAW rating stay at their record heights.

According to several sources, the following matches have been scheduled for In Your House II, to air July 23rd on PPV. WWF Champion Diesel will defend his title against Sid Vicious in a lumberjack match. Look for Sid to take the title with some help from Corporation lumberjacks to set up a match for SummerSlam against Shawn Michaels. Supposedly the plan is to have Shawn take the title in the August PPV. At IYH II, Shawn will face Jeff Jarret for the I-C strap, a match set up at this past Monday's live RAW. Look for Shawn to take the title, his third, to set up for a title vs. title bout at SummerSlam. Bret Hart will face Hakushi, and Bam Bam Bigelow will face King Kong Bundy in (rumored) a loser-leaves-WWF match. Jeff Jarret will also supposedly make his singing debut at the card. Rumor says it will be Roadie doing the singing and this will set up a feud between the two when the "truth" is revealed. If this card is true, it looks like it could be a good one for WWF.

WWF Injury List: Diesel has infected bone chip in elbow, Tatanka has been having knee problems, Ramon has bruised ribs, Owen Hart and 1-2-3 Kid both have recently suffered concussions, and Roadie has a staphylococcal infection in his knee. Perhaps this can all be attributed to an increase in workrate over the last several months.

Bruce Pritchard returned to the WWF this past Sunday to hawk T-shirts in the crowd. As many of you may recall, Pritchard was a major force (if it could be called "major") in the WWF for some time, calling himself "Brother Love" and doing a heel interview segment known as the "Brother Love Show". The following questions pertain back to Pritchard and his show.

1. Which WWF World Champion was blindsided on his show?
2. Who did the attack?
3. Which WWF World Titlist put and end to Brother Love's television segment?
4. What was the storyline to go along with the segment?
5. What did Pritchard do after leaving the show?

Write in or call the hotline with your answers. We'll reveal the winner(s) next week.

World Championship Wrestling News

WCW takes ridiculous prior bookings to new heights

The biggest news coming out of WCW this week has got to be the fact that Dirty Dick Slater and Bunkhouse Buck are the new WCW World Tag Team Champions. The bigger news is...they one the belts from Harlem Heat.

Details on this whole affair are very scratchy, but apparently The Stable took the titles from the Heat at a recent taping, but the win won't be shown until after the Bash at the Beach pay-per-view in July! This means one of the following scenarios has occurred:

1. Nasty's lost the titles to Heat and Heat lost them to Stable.

2. Nasty's were stripped of the titles after Great American Bash, and Heat faced Stable for the belts.

3. They taped the Stable beating Harlem Heat, but Heat will get the belts during the triangular match between the three teams at Bash at the Beach. After they have won them, WCW will air the match from this past week and give the titles to Slater and Buck.

Whatever the deal, this is just another example of a ridiculous trend that has been coming out of WCW as of late. WWF has recently been having T.V. tapings right after major PPV's, so the fans do have any idea beforehand who will win. WCW has been taping post-PPV matches PRIOR to the PPV's with the winner's of matches sometimes HOLDING THE BELTS they will win at the future PPV.

If this is confusing, harken back to the interviews Sting did with the U.S. Title BEFORE he had defeated Meng at the PPV.

In closing, with the speed that wrestling news gets around nowadays, it is pathetic for a major federation to book so far in advance, especially the winner's of Pay-per-view events.

In other WCW news: The upcoming rematch between Ric Flair and Randy Savage, scheduled for Bash... uh... at the... uh... what's the next pay-per-view called? Anyway, that match will be a lumberjack match with - get this - the FEMALE MEMBERS OF BAYWATCH AS LUMBERJACKS! This is really the plan. This should destroy all credibility that WCW earned at GAB.

If that isn't bad enough, the match is also being taped for an upcoming EPISODE of Baywatch featuring Hogan, Flair, Savage and Vader! The Nielson's should be sky high on this one.

WCW now plans to turn Alex Wright heel. The reasoning on this is that he is already being booed mercilessly by fans, so a heel turn would change virtually nothing.

Bill Dundee, formerly known as Sir William, was indicted recently for insurance fraud and will be sentenced this coming September. Apparently, he tried to have a friend steal his car so he could collect the insurance money. The friend got caught and turned the blame on Dundee, who the authorities promptly nailed. Another shining example of "family entertainment", second only to Van Hammer's recent problems with his adult video store.

Apparently, WCW plans to turn Randy Savage heel much sooner than intended. Originally it was not scheduled to occur until as late as January 1996, but it has now been moved to mid-summer due to the fact that WCW hopes it will draw some additional heat for the Monday Night show. This means that either Flair will wrestle the July card as a face, or the turn will come shortly afterwards.

And finally, perhaps greatest of all, Kamala has officially debuted.

The Mark's Corner

Welcome to the Mark's corner! This is some news of value to all the marks out there, as taken from sheets such as WWF Magazine, WCW magazine and T.V. commentary from all over.

* Jerry Lawler's feet had corns and bunions on them. That is why he threw up after kissing them.

* The 1-2-3 Kid has been training for his return in an underground dungeon with heavy weights.

* Hulk Hogan and Big Van Vader can't wait until Bash at the Beach to settle their feud.

* Ted DiBiase said he'd give raises to everyone in the Million Dollar Corporation that did well at the King of the Ring. He also said he is very angry with the members for never winning, and wants them to know that they are all dispensable.

* Randy Savage said that Nick Bockwinkle better suspend Ric Flair, "or else!"

Independent Wrestling News

UIWA presents FREE Fan Appreciation Day

The stars of the Universal Independent Wrestling Alliance want to thank the readers of the Figure Four for their nice turn-out last month at Puyallup. The promoters would like to express their gratitude by presenting a FREE wrestling card July 4 at 12:30 p.m. The location will be the Camp Murray National Guard Armory in Tillicum Washington, right off I-5 at the Madigan Hospital Exit across from Fort Lewis. In the main event, Dave Debashi will face Playboy Buddy Rose in a grudge match, with UIWA Washington State Champion Big Red Wrecking Crew as the special guest referee. Sumito will face Ken Roberts and several other bouts will highlight the card.

In addition, there will be an autograph party a half hour before bell time. Fans can get pictures and autographs with their favorite UIWA wrestlers.

For more information on this FREE Fan Appreciation Day wrestling event, call the UIWA hotline at (206) 984-7132.

This week the bombshell was dropped. At a recent National Wrestling Council Taping, Honky Tonk Man defeated Junk Yard Dog after interference from his trusty guitar. During a post-match in ring interview, Honky complained about the lack of talent in the NWC, and the fact that there wasn't anyone there with the talent to give him a run for his money. He must not have watched the rest of the card, because it also featured such top rate talent as Cactus Jack and Sabu.

Promoter T.C. Martin heard all of this, and answered, "Wait here while I make a phone call." During this time, the main event took place. Afterwards, Martin returned and said he had a man that would be happy to take Honky up on his challenge.

Therefore, on Saturday night, July 22nd, at 7:30 p.m., the main event will be:

Honky Tonk Man

Ultimate Warrior!

Yes, apparently it will be the real deal Jim Helwig, back in professional wrestling again.

Of course there are many fans who hate Warrior due to his lack of scientific wrestling skill. However, Warrior could work a crowd with the best of them, and it is any hard-core fans dream to see him go to WCW and just kick Renegade's ass.

But editorial comments aside, Helwig's return just goes to show that independents are still flourishing, and NWC is doing something very positive for the sport of wrestling.

Speaking of former WWF superstars on the independent circuit - Bastion Booger will be working Motor City Wrestling card.

Mr. Chin, born Hajime Deguchi on 10/11/31 died recently of heart failure. He was one of the biggest stars of All-Japan Pro Wrestling Association, and also one of it's more humorous factors. He will be missed.

Extreme Championship Wrestling presents Mountaintop Madness on June 30. The Main Event will feature ECW Champion Sandman defending the title against Tommy Dreamer. Ian Rotten will face Axl Rotten in their "final match", which will be billed as a barbed wire bat match. Public Enemy will face Raven & Steve Richards for the tag titles and 911, Taz, Cactus Jack and 2 Cold Scorpio will also make appearances.

On July 8, Washington State Ringside Pro Wrestling will promote the following matches (for more info, see hotline list): The Bodyguard & Sumito will face The Body Ole Olson & Pitbull, and Playboy Buddy Rose will face Moondog Moretti in a coal miner's glove match. No other matches were signed as of press time.

In the IWA/NWA joint card, NWA champion Dan Severn successfully defended the title against Tajiri. Afterwards, Tarzan Goto challenged Severn to a match on the August 20 show, which Severn accepted. In other matches, Tarzan & mystery partner Crash the Terminator defeated the Headhunters, and Tommy Cairo defeated Devon Storm for the NWA North American title.

Severn will also defend his Ultimate Fighting Championships crown at the next UFC PPV scheduled for July 14.

Smokey Mountain Wrestling will present the Superbowl of Wrestling card on August 4th, which will feature WWF, NWA, USWA and SMW title matches all on a single card. Apparently, Shawn Michaels will be there and is being billed in promo's as the Intercontinental Champ.

Canadian Promotions Update

By Adam Dykes, Canadian Corespondent

This column will begin in next weeks issue and will feature all the latest news coming out of Canada, including information on local independent house shows from groups such as West Coast Championship Wrestling and the Canadian Wrestling Alliance. Adam Dykes, editor of the Northwest Wrestler Newsletter and corespondent for the Northwest Wrestler hotline has agreed to give us updates whenever any big news hits.

Adam will also supply information on major United States promotions working shows up in the B.C. area. As many of you know, WWF shows north of the border have some surprising results when compared to shows broadcast on U.S. TV.

We hope everyone enjoys this edition to the Figure Four.

Weekly Television Rundown

Beginning next week, corespondent Wayne Gibson will present the weekly television rundown concerning all the major promotions which receive network, cable, or satellite reception.

Until then, we will present the results of two WWF cable TV shows, WWF Action Zone, and WWF Monday Night Raw.

Action Zone, Sunday June 26, 1995 - In the opening match, Hakushi defeated jobber Bob Cooke with a slingshot splash off the top rope. Waylan Mercy interviewed next, setting up for his debut next Saturday on WWF Superstars. Aldo Montoya wrestled next, soundly defeating Bull Pain. Bob Backlund gave a presidential interview, and finished up by verbally abusing Man Mountain Rock. Mabel defeated David Haskins in an excellent match, primarily due to the fact that Haskins took a 360 degree bump from a clothesline. Undertaker interviewed, talking about Kama. Sid and Tatanka defeated Buck Quartermain and Gus Cantankerous (where the hell do they get these names) after Sid powerbombed and pinned both men. Lawler gave a torture chamber interview, and Bret Hart defeated Henry Godwin in a hard-fought battle for Hart.

Monday Night Raw, June 27, 1995 - Smoking Guns thrashed the Phantom and Jason Hart in about 2 minutes. Lawler interview at "his dentist", Isaac Yankem, stating "Hart, your feet are the smelliest there is, the smelliest there are, and the smelliest there ever will be!" Yankem will apparently feud with Hart in the near future. Skip of the Bodydonnas killed Scott Taylor with the top rope Frankensteiner. Man Mountain Rock had a concert before destroying some Jobber. Mabel was carried to the ring on a throne by four profusely sweating jobbers. He got down and mutilated Kenny Kendall. And in the main event, Savio Vega face Jeff Jarret for the Intercontinental strap. Near the end, Roadie and an announcing Shawn Michaels got into an a skirmish, and almost cost Double J the victory. Roadie ran in, clotheslined Vega, got the DQ loss. Before the cameras pulled out, Jarret returned to challenge Shawn to an impromptu match.

Neutral Corner

WEEKLY EDITORIAL - By Bryan Alvarez

I just finished watching King of the Ring, and I must get it off my chest...I'm very disappointed. It started when I went to the cable company to order it. There were no KOTR posters, shirts, etc. being given out free. Of course, I wouldn't have hung the poster or worn the shirt, but at least I would have gotten something out of this PPV.

When I heard Vega would face IRS in the qualifying match, I became disappointed again. Why Vega? Why did McMahon think that ANY of the tournament finalist (except Roadie and Holly who gave it their best) deserved to be in there? Had he given us a tournament with Chris Candido, Chris Benoit, Hakushi, Owen Hart, Roadie, and Holly, the tournament could have become something a hell of a lot more exciting then the garbage paying fans were forced to sit through. Everyone at the Spectrum appeared ready to doze of during nearly every match. Plus we had not a single title defense on the card?

There's too much wrong with the King of the Ring to talk about in a single column. But I'm not going to waste anymore time thrashing it. We can just hope McMahon takes a look at some of the legitimate talent that he has, and do something productive with it in the future.

Roll Call of Champions

enough to destroy the Man from the Dark Side's credibility. Mabel then executes a legdrop and pins, that's right PINS the Undertaker. This was one of the worst matches on the card and totally destroyed the mystique of the Undertaker that the WWF has been developing for so many years. Worse yet, just five seconds after being beaten into submission, the Undertaker "rises from the dead" to pursue Kama. A true head shaker.

Roadie vs. Savio Vega follows immediately. Roadie had been our second choice after Michaels, but the Latin American Sensation puts him away cleanly in his third match of the night. Vega, a man who was not even billed in the original tournament, is being pushed dramatically for some reason.

In a humorous point, Vega gets interviewed in Spanish by another commentator (the WWF now has international commentators for pay-per-views), and Doc Hendrix translates for him (loose reporting here):

VEGA: (Something in Spanish)
HENDRIX: "Mabel's gonna kill me!"
VEGA: (Something in Spanish)
HENDRIX: "I don't know how I got this far!!"

After this match the WWF reveals that a Vega push was planned by stating that you can call their hotline from the U.S., Canada, or Puerto Rico.

Bret Hart appears next, ready to face Jerry Lawler in the "Loser Must Kiss The Winner's Feet" match. Lawler dominates most of this match, until Hakushi interferes. Lawler twice holds Hart for a Hakushi offensive, and both times Hart moves enough for Lawler to take the bump. Eventually Lawler submits to the sharpshooter and is forced to kiss both Bret's feet and, with a little help from the HitMan, his own. Lawler later throws up during a post match interview.

Vega vs. Mabel in the KOTR finals was arguably the worst main event match-up in pay-per-view history. Both men were slow, there was little action and frequent rest holds. Eventually Mabel took the victory after a big splash. After the match, Moe and Mabel attack Razor and Vega. Who should make the save but 1-2-3 Kid Shaun Waltman. Eventually the melee ends and the coronation begins. It was quite humorous to see a 500+ pound grown man with a mohawk dressed up in a glittering robe, a shiny crown (which fit perfectly of course), and clutching a huge sword sitting on a throne. 1-2-3 Kid, Vega, and Ramon acted as if they were going to attack Mabel, which was a stupid angle since he was clutching a three foot longsword. Moe attempted to read the proclamation, but only succeeded in putting over the idea that he had a sub 100 IQ.

Bam Bam Bigelow and Diesel interviewed next, the highlight of which was Bam Bam wearing a shirt which showed his head on fire.

The main event was everything fans expected, slow paced, bad defensive skills from Sid, and a Diesel pin on Tatanka.

Sid walked out after a Diesel challenge, which sets up for their luberjack match at In Your House II, which will air July 23.

All in all, one of the worst pay-per-view events the WWF has presented in quite some time. Instead of seeing a great tournament with athletes such as Candido, Benoit, Owen Hart, and others, we were forced to watch a ridiculous display of sub main event performers. The WWF could have done much better, and we can only hope the next couple pay-per-views push their impressive new talent.
